Commissioners' Report

In accordance with the Public Statutes of the State of New Hampshire the Commissioners of Carroll County submit their annual report together with the report of the Superintendent of the County Farm and of the various other County Officers.

The year 1939 has been an uneventful one in Carroll County, things having gone on with average smoothness. Superintendent and Mrs. Richardson have carried on very satisfactorily at the home, continuing the well regulated routine that has been characteristic there for many years.

No major operations were undertaken other than the salvaging of down timber which resulted in an income to the farm of approximately one thousand dollars. This amount, of course, cannot be considered net as an extra teamster had to be added to the payroll and several men put into the woods to get the logs in shape for hauling.

It is a well known fact that the Carroll County home buildings are old and of necessity much repairing has to be done each year. During 1939 practically all of this work was taken care of by house of correction men, and the latter part of the year one of these men was added to the payroll at a small salary. His entire time now is spent at repair work. At present he is rebuilding the inside of the horse barn, laying new floors, putting in new partitions and feed racks.

Other repairs and alterations during 1939 were the restoring of the greenhouse, installing a lavatory in the summer kitchen, as well as one just off the superintendent's office, and doing some papering and painting in the alms house.

The number of inmates at the institution has held about the same as in 1938 but they are all older and at this writing eleven are bed patients. These necessitate much care and an extra nurse had to be added to the staff of attendants in the latter part of 1939, as well as a second cook in the kitchen.

Because of the recent law making all persons who have had public assistance from towns for five consecutive years, county cases, one hundred and sixteen people from the various towns were wished upon Carroll County during 1939, and there was nothing that the commissioners could do about it. The amount of money spent on these cases during 1939 was approximately $8,600.00. In anticipating this increase from towns last year an amount of $5,000.00 was set aside, but all towns naturally took advantage of the chance to get rid of their chronic cases, and many more were passed over to the county than was expected. The towns to profit most by this passing over of cases were Wolfboro, which turned over fourteen cases, representing fifty-nine people, at a cost of $2,970.00; Conway, which gave the county eight cases, representing thirty-two people, at an expense of $1,910.00; and Bartlett, which turned over six cases, representing eighteen people, at a cost of $982.00. To further complicate this situation five of these cases were boarders at the county home, so it can be readily seen that the county was struck both coming and going, since the expense for these boarders was continued at the home, while the board money that had been coming in annually from towns was taken away.

A glance at the county home expenditures shows that the institution overran its appropriation by approximately $4,000, but when one studies the figures intelligently it will be noted that several things, over which the commissioners and superintendent had no control, were responsible for this overdraft. In the first place $950 was an emergency expense, caused when the refrigeration plant went wrong in the summer, and it was found necessary to install a new one, the old unit having been in use ten years, and being difficult to service. In the second place there was the added expense of the extra helpers already mentioned who were placed on the payroll, and lastly the loss of over $800 board money which has already been mentioned.

It should also be noted that the farm income amounted to over $7,000 which was just double what was estimated, and if this difference should be taken into consideration, the overexpenditure does not look so bad.

The largest other over-expenditure was the courts, but it will be recalled that the 1938 Court held over into January, 1939, and this expense was paid early in 1939. The regular 1939 Court expenses were, of course, settled up, which made the expenses of practically three sessions of the Court to be paid in one year.

The commissioners were able during 1939 to hire money at a very low rate of interest, .0375, which was gratifying to them, and they feel sure will be appreciated by the citizens of Carroll County.

In submitting this report the Carroll County Commissioners wish to thank the public in general for its cooperation, and to especially thank the various organizations that have brought cheer to the inmates of the County Home by their generous remembrances during the year.

Signed,

PERCY F. GARLAND,
EDWIN B. EDGERLY,
RAYMOND A. WEEKS,

Commissioners of Carroll County.

Report of County Physician

Carroll County Commissioners:

Health conditions at the County Home for the year 1939 were normal. Eighty-seven patients were admitted to the hospital for treatment. There were five births and thirteen deaths. Illness was largely confined to chronic diseases of the aged. There were no epidemics.

Physical equipment at the hospital has been improved by the addition of five hospital gatch beds.

The nursing service has been of the highest type.

I wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Richardson for their hearty cooperation and the fine spirit which has been shown throughout the year.
